Institution  Address: W35 Ninoshvili Sr. Batumi 6010 Tel/Fax: (0422) 27 17 87 E-mail: info@bat.edu ge Program  Program  Servestry  Qualification conferred  Program Volume in Credits  Aim of the Educational Program  Seachelor of Agrarian Sciences  Aim of the Educational Program  To prepare Bachelors of Agrarian Sciences who will know rational management and statistical program  To prepare Bachelors of Agrarian Sciences who will know rational management and climate-regulatory functions of forests; clearing and main utilization cuttings; forest rehabilitation, registration of forests; clearing and main utilization cuttings; forest treatment and station indices and on this basis. Organization, forest resources turnover and reproduction, proper forest arrangement on this basis. Exact evaluation of forest taxation indices and on this basis, organization of proper forest management. Protection of forest plants from pests, diseases and fire.  Learning Outcomes  The graduate is able to:  The graduate is able to:  Divide forests according to functional purposes (categories), make systematic analysis of local and introduced woody species;  Perform ferest protection, restoration-rehabilitation of degraded, low-productivity forests;  Arrange forest nurseries for cultivation of high-quality standard seedlings, cultivate seedlings of the main forest species;  Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization:  Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  The conditions of the	Name of the Educational	LEPL "Batumi Shota Rustaveli State University"
Title of the Educational Program Program Program Ogalification conferred Bachelor of Agrarian Sciences Program Volume in Credits Aim of the Educational Program Volume in Credits Aim of the Educational Program Volume in Credits Aim of the Educational Program  Bachelors of Agrarian Sciences Program Volume in Credits Aim of the Educational Program  The Bachelors of Agrarian Sciences who will know rational management and sustainable utilization of forest productivity; modern methods of restoration-rehabilitation of degraded areas. Wood utilization; water storing, soil-protecting and climate-regulatory functions of forests; clearing and main utilization cuttings; forest rehabilitation, registration of forest fund organization, forest resources urmover and reproduction, proper forest arrangement on this basis. Sustain sevaluation of forest taxation indices and on this basis, organization of proper forest management. Protection of forest plants from petst, diseases and fire.  Learning Outcomes  The graduate is able to:  - Make general description of world forests, namely, natural conditions and biological diversity of forests in Georgia:  - Divide forests according to functional purposes (categories), make systematic analysis of local and introduced woody species;  - Perform forest protection, restoration-rehabilitation of degraded, low-productivity forests;  - Preform forest protection, restoration-rehabilitation of degraded, low-productivity forests;  - Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization;  - Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  - Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  - Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  - Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangeme		l ·
E-mail: info@bsu.edu.ge
Program   Program   Program   Bachelor of Agrarian Sciences   240 credits: Major - 180 credits   240 credits: Major - 180 cred		· · ·
Qualification conferred   Bachelor of Agrarian Sciences	Title of the Educational Program Volume in Credits  Aim of the Educational Program  To prepare Bachelors of Agrarian Sciences who will know rational management and sustainable utilization of forest productivity; modern methods of restoration-rehabilitation of degraded areas. Wood utilization; water storing, soil-protecting and climate-regulatory functions of forests fund organization, forest resources turnover and reproduction, proper forest arrangement on this basis. Exact evaluation of forest taxation indices and on this basis, organization of proper forest management. Protection of forest plants from pests, diseases and fire.  Learning Outcomes  The graduate is able to:  - Make general description of world forests, namely, natural conditions and biological diversity of forests in Georgia;  - Divide forests according to functional purposes (categories), make systematic analysis of local and introduced woody species;  - Perform forest protection, restoration-rehabilitation of degraded, low-productivity forests;  - Arrange forest nurseries for cultivation of high-quality standard seedlings, cultivate seedlings of the main forest species;  - Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization;  - Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  - Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  - Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  - Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  - Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Determine of process of the proper proper proper propersion of technologies in the issues of forest taxation and Minor program or elective courses - 60 credits.  Aim of the Educational Program  To prepare Bachelors of Agrarian Sciences who will know rational management and sustainable utilization of forest productivity; modern methods of restoration-rehabilitation of degraded areas. Wood utilization; water storing, soil-protectings; forest rehabilitation, registration of forest fraind organization, forest resources turnover and reproduction, proper forest arrangement on this basis. Exact evaluation of forest taxation indices and on this basis organization of proper forest management. Protection of forest plants from pests, diseases and fire.  Learning Outcomes  The graduate is able to:  - Make general description of world forests, namely, natural conditions and biological diversity of forests in Georgia:  - Divide forests according to functional purposes (categories), make systematic analysis of local and introduced woody species;  - Perform forest protection, restoration-rehabilitation of degraded, low-productivity forests;  - Arrange forest nurseries for cultivation of high-quality standard seedlings, cultivate seedlings of the main forest species;  - Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization;  - Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  - Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  - Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  - Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  - Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information techn	-
Aim of the Educational Program  To prepare Bachelors of Agrarian Sciences who will know rational management and sustainable utilization of forest productivity; modern methods of restoration rehabilitation of degraded areas. Wood utilization, water storing, soil protecting and climate-regulatory functions of forests; clearing and main utilization cuttings; forest rehabilitation, registration of forests fund organization, forest resources turnover and reproduction, proper forest arrangement on this basis. Exact evaluation of forest taxation indices and on this basis, organization of proper forest management. Protection of forest plants from pests, diseases and fire.  Learning Outcomes  The graduate is able to:  - Make general description of world forests, namely, natural conditions and biological diversity of forests in Georgia:  - Divide forests according to functional purposes (categories), make systematic analysis of local and introduced woody species;  - Perform forest protection, restoration-rehabilitation of degraded, low-productivity forests;  - Arrange forest nurseries for cultivation of high-quality standard seedlings, cultivate seedlings of the main forest species;  - Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization;  - Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  - Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  - Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  - Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  Assessment	Frogram volume in Credits	, sustainable utilization of forest productivity; modern methods of restoration-rehabilitation of degraded areas. Wood utilization; water storing, soil-protecting and climater-regulatory functions of forests; clearing and main utilization cuttings; forest rehabilitation, registration of forest fund organization, forest resources turnover and reproduction, proper forest arrangement on this basis. Exact evaluation of forest taxation indices and on this basis, organization of proper forest management. Protection of forest plants from pests, diseases and fire.  Learning Outcomes  The graduate is able to:  - Make general description of world forests, namely, natural conditions and biological diversity of forests in Georgia:  - Divide forests according to functional purposes (categories), make systematic analysis of local and introduced woody species;  - Perform forest protection, restoration-rehabilitation of degraded, low-productivity forests;  - Arrange forest nurseries for cultivation of high-quality standard seedlings, cultivate seedlings of the main forest species;  - Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization;  - Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  - Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  - Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  - Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  - Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  Assessment  Students	Aim of the Educational rehabilitation of degraded areas. Wood utilization; water storing, soil-protecting and climate-regulatory functions of forests; clearing and main utilization cuttings; forest rehabilitation, registration of forest fund organization, forest resources turnover and reproduction, proper forest arrangement on this basis. Exact evaluation of forest taxation indices and on this basis, organization of proper forest management. Protection of forest plants from pests, diseases and fire.  Learning Outcomes  The graduate is able to:  Make general description of world forests, namely, natural conditions and biological diversity of forests in Georgia;  Divide forests according to functional purposes (categories), make systematic analysis of local and introduced woody species;  Perform forest protection, restoration-rehabilitation of degraded, low-productivity forests;  Arrange forest nurseries for cultivation of high-quality standard seedlings, cultivate seedlings of the main forest species;  Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization;  Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  Assessment  Students are evaluated according to the following system:  (D) Satisfactory 61-70 points; e) (E) — Sufficient 5 climate-regulatory functions of forests; clearing and main utilization cuttings; forest rehabilitation, registration of forest fund organization, forest resources turnover and reproduction, proper forest arrangement on this basis. Exact evaluation of forest taxation indices and on this basis, organization of proper forest management. Protection of forest plants from pests, diseases and fire.  The graduate is able to:  - Make general description of world forests, namely, natural conditions and biological diversity of forests in Georgia;  - Divide forests according to functional purposes (categories), make systematic analysis of local and introduced woody species;  - Perform forest protection, restoration-rehabilitation of degraded, low-productivity forests;  - Arrange forest nurseries for cultivation of high-quality standard seedlings, cultivate seedlings of the main forest species;  - Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization;  - Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  - Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  - Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  - Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  - Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  Assessment  Students are evaluated according to the following system: a) (A) — Excellent - 91 points and more; b) (B) — Very Good - 81-90 points; c) (C) — Good 71-80 points; d) (D)—Satisfactory 61-70 point	110grain
Protection of forest plants from pests, diseases and fire.  The graduate is able to:  - Make general description of world forests, namely, natural conditions and biological diversity of forests in Georgia;  - Divide forests according to functional purposes (categories), make systematic analysis of local and introduced woody species;  - Perform forest protection, restoration-rehabilitation of degraded, low-productivity forests;  - Arrange forest nurseries for cultivation of high-quality standard seedlings, cultivate seedlings of the main forest species;  - Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization;  - Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  - Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  - Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  - Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  - Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  Assessment  Students are evaluated according to the following system: a) (A) – Excellent - 91 points and more; b) (B) – Very Good - 81-90 points; c) (C) – Good 71-80 points; d) (D) – Saifscatory 61-70 points; e) (E) – Sufficient 51-60 points; (FV) – could not pass 41-50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) – Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.		climate-regulatory functions of forests; clearing and main utilization cuttings; forest rehabilitation, registration of forest fund organization, forest resources turnover and
The graduate is able to:  - Make general description of world forests, namely, natural conditions and biological diversity of forests in Georgia;  - Divide forests according to functional purposes (categories), make systematic analysis of local and introduced woody species;  - Perform forest protection, restoration-rehabilitation of degraded, low-productivity forests;  - Arrange forest nurseries for cultivation of high-quality standard seedlings, cultivate seedlings of the main forest species;  - Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization;  - Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  - Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  - Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  - Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  - Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Determine ecological tonditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Students are evaluated according to the following system: a) (A) – Excellent – 91 points and more; b) (B) – Very Good – 81-90 points; c) (C) – Good 71-80 points; d) (D)– Satisfactory 61-70 points; e) (E) – Sufficient 51-60 points; (FX) – could not pass 41-50 points. Student has to take the additional exam once more; (F) – Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.
- Make general description of world forests, namely, natural conditions and biological diversity of forests in Georgia;  - Divide forests according to functional purposes (categories), make systematic analysis of local and introduced woody species;  - Perform forest protection, restoration-rehabilitation of degraded, low-productivity forests;  - Arrange forest nurseries for cultivation of high-quality standard seedlings, cultivate seedlings of the main forest species;  - Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization;  - Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  - Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  - Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  - Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  - Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  - Students are evaluated according to the following system: a) (A) — Excellent - 91 points and more; b) (B) — Very Good - 81-90 points; c) (C) — Good 71-80 points; d) (D)— Satisfactory 61-70 points; e) (E) — Sufficient 51-60 points; (FX) — could not pass 41-50 points. Student has to take the additional exam once more; (F) — Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.
analysis of local and introduced woody species;  Perform forest protection, restoration-rehabilitation of degraded, low-productivity forests;  Arrange forest nurseries for cultivation of high-quality standard seedlings, cultivate seedlings of the main forest species;  Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization;  Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  Assessment  Students are evaluated according to the following system: a) (A) — Excellent – 91 points and more; b) (B) — Very Good – 81–90 points; c) (C) — Good 71–80 points; d) (D)— Satisfactory 61–70 points; e) (E) — Sufficient 51–60 points; (FX) — could not pass 41–50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) — Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.  Vano Papunidze, Professor  Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87.	Learning Outcomes	- Make general description of world forests, namely, natural conditions and forests;  - Arrange forest nurseries for cultivation of high-quality standard seedlings, cultivate seedlings of the main forest species;  - Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization;  - Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  - Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  - Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  - Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  - Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  Assessment  Students are evaluated according to the following system: a) (A) – Excellent – 91 points and more; b) (B) – Very Good – 81–90 points; c) (C) – Good 71–80 points; d) (D)– Satisfactory 61–70 points; e) (E) – Sufficient 51–60 points; (FX) – could not pass 41–50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) – Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.  Contact Person  Vano Papunidze, Professor  Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87. seedlings of the main forest species;  Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization;  Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  Assessment  Students are evaluated according to the following system: a) (A) — Excellent – 91 points and more; b) (B) — Very Good – 81–90 points; c) (C) — Good 71–80 points; d) (D)— Satisfactory 61–70 points; e) (E) — Sufficient 51–60 points; (FX) — could not pass 41–50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) — Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.  Vano Papunidze, Professor  Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87.
- Identify forest plant diseases and use traditional and modern methods against them;  - Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;  - Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  - Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  - Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  Assessment  Students are evaluated according to the following system: a) (A) – Excellent - 91 points and more; b) (B) – Very Good - 81-90 points; c) (C) – Good 71-80 points; d) (D) – Satisfactory 61-70 points; e) (E) – Sufficient 51-60 points; (FX) – could not pass 41-50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) – Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.  Contact Person  Vano Papunidze, Professor  Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87.		seedlings of the main forest species;  - Produce forest cultures, conduct forest-cultural regionalization; <ul> <li>Determine ongoing changes in the groves and plan cuttings in accordance with definite instructions;</li> <li>Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;</li> <li>Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;</li> <li>Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;</li> <li>Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;</li> <li>Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;</li> <li>Assessment</li> <li>Students are evaluated according to the following system: a) (A) – Excellent - 91 points and more; b) (B) – Very Good - 81-90 points; c) (C) – Good 71-80 points; d) (D) – Satisfactory 61-70 points; e) (E) – Sufficient 51-60 points; (FX) – could not pass 41-50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) – Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.</li> <li>Contact Person</li> <li>Vano Papunidze, Professor</li> <li>Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87.</li> </ul> definite instructions;  Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;  Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  Assessment  Students are evaluated according to the following system: a) (A) – Excellent - 91 points and more; b) (B) – Very Good - 81-90 points; c) (C) – Good 71-80 points; d) (D) – Satisfactory 61-70 points; e) (E) – Sufficient 51-60 points; (FX) – could not pass 41-50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) – Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.  Contact Person  Vano Papunidze, Professor  Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87.
- Select technological schemes and techniques for cultivation of territories allotted for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  - Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  Assessment  Students are evaluated according to the following system: a) (A) – Excellent – 91 points and more; b) (B) – Very Good – 81-90 points; c) (C) – Good 71-80 points; d) (D)– Satisfactory 61-70 points; e) (E) – Sufficient 51-60 points; (FX) – could not pass 41-50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) – Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.  Contact Person  Vano Papunidze, Professor  Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87.
for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined instructions;  - Transfer timber with different types of transport; preparation of national consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  - Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  Assessment  Students are evaluated according to the following system:  a) (A) – Excellent – 91 points and more; b) (B) – Very Good – 81-90 points; c) (C) – Good 71-80 points; d) (D) – Satisfactory 61-70 points; e) (E) – Sufficient 51-60 points; (FX) – could not pass 41-50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) – Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.  Contact Person  Vano Papunidze, Professor  Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87.		<ul> <li>Determine independently forest ripening and conduct forest inventory;</li> </ul> consumption goods and items, chemical processing of wood and leftovers;  Determine ecological conditions of the given agro-climatic zone and consider during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  Students are evaluated according to the following system: a) (A) – Excellent - 91 points and more; b) (B) – Very Good - 81-90 points; c) (C) – Good 71-80 points; d) (D)– Satisfactory 61-70 points; e) (E) – Sufficient 51-60 points; (FX) – could not pass 41-50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) – Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.  Contact Person  Vano Papunidze, Professor  Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87.		for forest cut systems and types, in accordance with preliminarily determined during forest culture arrangement according to the zones;  - Is able to apply theoretical knowledge of chemistry, mathematics and information technologies in the issues of forest taxation and statistics;  - Students are evaluated according to the following system:  a) (A) - Excellent - 91  points and more; b) (B) - Very Good - 81-90 points; c) (C) - Good 71-80 points; d)  (D)- Satisfactory 61-70 points; e) (E) - Sufficient 51-60 points; (FX) - could not pass 41-50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) - Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.  Contact Person  Vano Papunidze, Professor  Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87.
Assessment  Students are evaluated according to the following system:  a) (A) – Excellent - 91 points and more; b) (B) – Very Good - 81-90 points; c) (C) – Good 71-80 points; d) (D) – Satisfactory 61-70 points; e) (E) – Sufficient 51-60 points; (FX) – could not pass 41-50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) – Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.  Contact Person  Vano Papunidze, Professor Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87. points and more; b) (B) – Very Good - 81-90 points; c) (C) – Good 71-80 points; d) (D) – Satisfactory 61-70 points; e) (E) – Sufficient 51-60 points; (FX) – could not pass 41-50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) – Fail 0-40 points. Student has to take the course again.  Vano Papunidze, Professor Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87.
Contact Person Vano Papunidze, Professor Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87.	Assessment	points and more; b) (B) – Very Good - 81-90 points; c) (C) – Good 71-80 points; d) (D)– Satisfactory 61-70 points; e) (E) – Sufficient 51-60 points; (FX) – could not pass 41-50 points. Student has the right to take the additional exam once more; (F) – Fail
Tel.: 599 26 26 87; 579 26 26 87.	Contact Person
		_
E-mail: vano.papunidze@bsu.edu.ge						